

Before the Industrial Revolution . . .

- Small communities with little contact beyond the next village or so
- “Everyone knows everyone”
- Skilled trades are highly valued
- Work hours are more flexible
- Largely subsistence farming and living
- Sense of “Community”

Industrial Revolution

- Abandoning of small hamlets and villages for bigger towns and cities (where the factories are).
- Movement of parents away from the home (to work)
- Mass destruction of the environment
- Bigger cities consume smaller communities
