

Feudalism Verses Industrial Capitalism

In your group, _____, is your local feudal lord. The land that you live on is owned by the Queen, but was bestowed as a fief on your lord for services to the Crown. The lord, as a tenant, owes the King payment in exchange for the land which could be a percentage of the overall crop, military service, etc. As time passed, the preferred payment would be tax money.

Under the feudal lord, the land has been further subdivided into smaller allotments. Landless peasants work the land in exchange for shelter (in a local village, or possibly out on the land), protection and a share in the crop.

Here is a map of your land.

Why are these photographs, taken from the video “Martin Clun Visits Sark” extraordinary? What two words are colliding?
