

Your Name: _____

The 2018 United States elections will be held mostly on Tuesday, November 6, 2018. These midterm elections will take place in the middle of Republican President Donald Trump's first term. All 435 seats in the United States House of Representatives and 35 of the 100 seats in the United States Senate will be contested. 39 state and territorial governorships as well as numerous other state and local elections will also be contested.

Many people, including President Trump, see the mid-terms as a referendum on his presidency.

New York Times "2018 Election Calendar and Results" Website:

<https://www.nytimes.com/interactive/2018/us/elections/calendar-primary-results.html>

1. Based on what you have learned so far, which party do you predict will have control of the US Congress following the 2018 mid-terms:

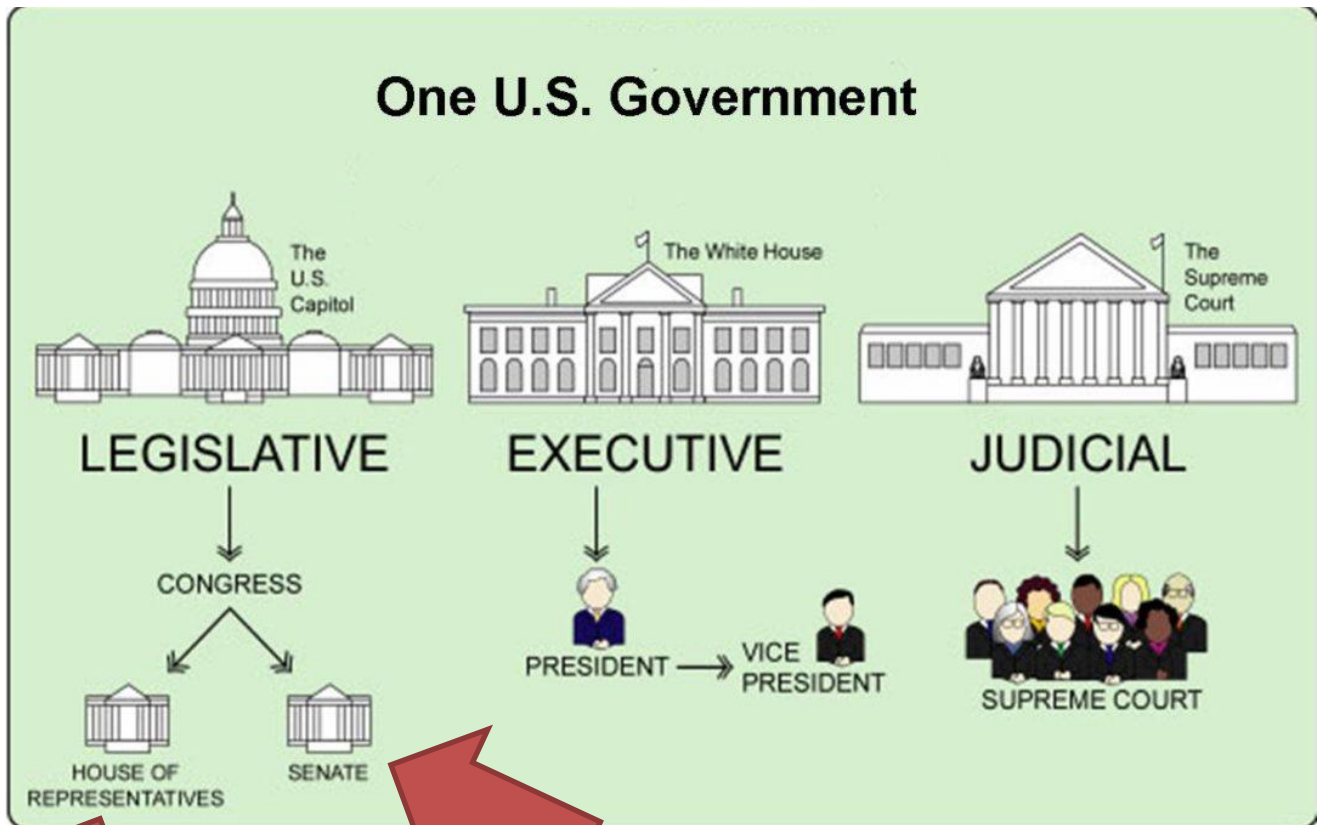

Democratic Party

Republic Party

2. Based on what you have learned so far, which party do you predict will have control of the US Senate following the 2018 mid-terms:

Democratic Party

Republic Party

3. Based on who you think will win, what is in store for the United States? On the back of this ballot, referencing ideas discussed in class, predict (in at least 500 words) what the next four years is going to look like in the United States based on who you think will win on November 6th, 2018.